Your Drug Screen, WHY?

One of our favorite questions on HireRight's Annual Employment Screening Benchmark Reports is, "What is the most interesting excuse you have ever heard for a positive drug test?" We're pleased to share with you a few of the most imaginative – and definitely interesting – answers we received as part of our brand new 2018 Employment Screening Benchmark Report.

“
The pot pie I had at Thanksgiving must have had pot in it.

“
I was locked in a closet where people were smoking pot.

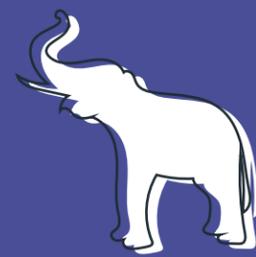

“
My mom must have put it in my food.

“
I thought it was crushed aspirin.

“
Someone threw a bag of marijuana on a bonfire.

“
What? Elephant tranquilizers show up on your drug screen?

“
It wasn't my urine anyway. I was afraid mine wouldn't pass.

“
How long does weed stay in your system? Can I come back at the end of the month and try again?

“
I fell into a vat of cocaine.

BTW, to hopefully curtail such fascinating excuses and ensure a fast, convenient, and accurate drug screening process, we're pleased to note that HireRight has transformed its drug and healthcare screening service offerings, and now features more than 22,000 collection facilities—the largest in the background screening industry. In addition, this multi-vendor alliance with the leading laboratories and collection site networks features a more expansive suite of mobile-enabled electronic scheduling services. Perhaps swift and accurate results will produce excuses just as quickly.

While we bid adieu to this year's crop of humorous excuses, we will take heart in the fact that HireRight's electronic drug screening services deliver a powerful resource to help weed out users of illegal or illicit drugs.
